

Athens, May 2022

Flexopack participates in the IFFA 2022, the World's Leading Trade Fair – Technology for Meat and Alternative Proteins

IFFA covers the entire market for processing, packaging, and selling of meat and alternative proteins, offering the global food industry a platform for innovation and networking. The latest edition of IFFA which was held in Frankfurt, 14-19 May 2022 has concluded with great success.

Flexopack participated, with a stand of 187sq.m., at which we presented our cutting-edge developments in the field of flexible packaging and sustainability.

The visitors of the booth had the opportunity to discuss with our specialized colleagues, regarding the best possible solutions for food packaging, always with a view to obtaining increased shelf life and the optimal sustainability of the packaging.

Thank you for your participation, we renew our appointment at the next IFFA!

Flexopack Group is a leading producer of flexible packaging used by major meat and cheese industries globally. Proudly celebrating 40 years of operational excellence, with multiple production facilities and subsidiaries around the world.

With significant presence across the Americas, Europe, Oceania and Asia, Flexopack offers expert advice on providing the best solutions for each customer.