

Athens, October 2022

Flexopack participates in the PackExpo Chicago 2022

For the first time in four years, PACK EXPO International 2022 gathered in person with over 2,000 exhibitors and 40,000 attendees from 40+ vertical industries—all looking for the latest innovations and solutions in packaging and processing technology.

Flexopack presented the latest technological developments in the field of flexible packaging.

The visitors of the booth had the opportunity to discuss with our colleagues the best possible solutions to the issues of packaging of perishable foods, always with a view to obtaining optimal shelf life and the sustainability of the packaging.

Thank you for your participation, we renew our appointment for the next show!

Flexopack Group is a leading producer of flexible packaging used by major meat and cheese industries globally. Proudly celebrating 40 years of operational excellence, with multiple production facilities and subsidiaries around the world.

With significant presence across the Americas, Europe, Oceania and Asia, Flexopack offers expert advice on providing the best solutions for each customer.